BIGGEST LEAD GENERATION CHALLENGES

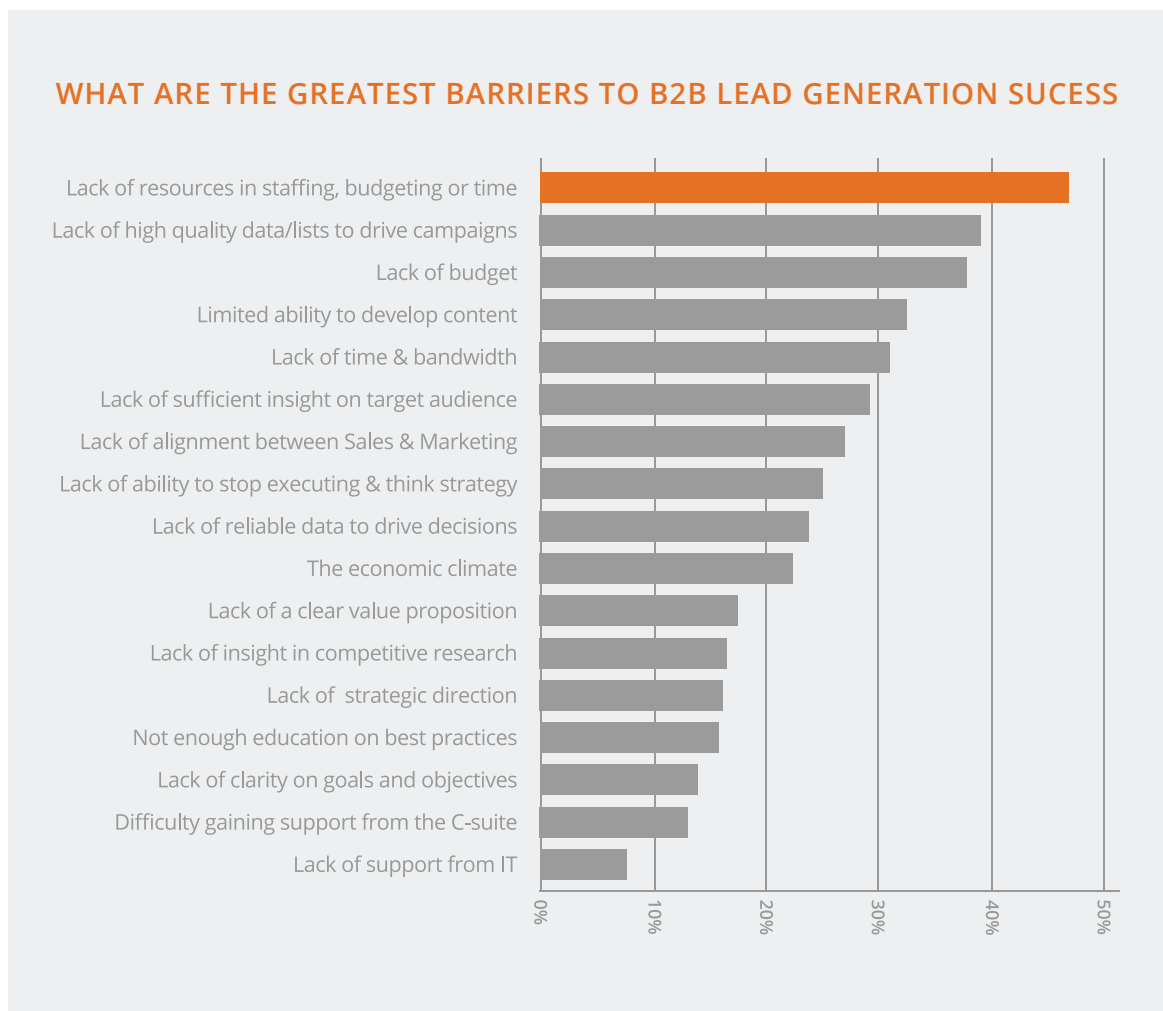

Even though business executives report that lead quality is one of their top priorities, it's also one of their biggest challenges. In a recent study by IDG Research, 61% of businesses reported that generating qualified leads was problematic for their organization. Along with finding high-quality leads, converting leads, sourcing high-quality data, lead generation across multiple platforms, and generating a high-volume of leads was among their lists of challenges.

Not only were businesses having difficulty generating quality leads, the same study found that these same businesses reporting lacking the right resources to drive campaigns. In fact, over 45% of businesses reported lacking the staffing, budgeting, and time to have B2B lead generation success.
